The Virginia Coalition.

The Virginia Coalition movement, made up of Readjusters and Republicans—the ments which oppose Bourbon rule-is once more subjected to an intense cross The Bourbons were never so determ ined to split the opposition. Many Repubother States, sympathizing with those Virginia Republicans who stand aloof from the Coalition, are disposed to give it the cold shoulder. It is easy to understand why the Bourbons become flercer as the year of a Presidential electio draws nearer. Those Republicans who look with distayor upon the Coalition ob ject either to the attitude of the Readjust ers towards the State debt or to the politi cal methods of Mahone. Can the coalition stand against this pressure from the fron and the rear? Does it deserve to stand? The Coalitionists, Liberals or Readjusters, point to a progressive record, tersely re-viewed by a Virginia correspondent of the National Republican:

National Republican:

Its brilliant achievements are seen in the securement of a free ballot for every man in the State; in the fact hat under readjustment rule the number of free schools, white and colored, has been rearly doubled; number of pupils, white and colored, nearly doubled; number of trachers, white and colored, nearly doubled; number of trachers, white and colored, nearly doubled; simount of money expended on schools acuble what the Bourbons expended, and all of the teachers promptly paid! A normal school established for the education of colored teachers; three hundred lunatics, white and black, taken from the common jails, where Bourbonism was allowing them to fand and cie, and placed in comfortable asylums where many have been and many more will be cured; five times as many miles of redigated huilt in the State in four years of readjuster rule as in a quarter of a century of previous Bourbon government; the tile of emigration turning toward instead of away from Virginia; her children being educated as becomes a great commonwealt; all classes of her peop e contented, prosperous and happy. This is a record which represents value. This is a record which represents value to the State and to the country. It is in line with the aspirations of every progress ive State. It represents the triumph o untiring effort ever ceaseless hostility Under Liberal rule the emancipation and enfranchisement of the negro means some thing; his vote has been counted and his children invited, to the public schools. There has been a nearer approach than before to equiity before the law. Many Republicans believing that a State, as well as an individual, ought to pay its debts, are opposed to the Readjuster view of the debt question. If there be any difference as between the Bourbon Funders and the Liberal Readjusters it is in favor of the Readjusters. The Bourbons have pre tended to be desirous of paying all, have paid nothing. The Readjusters have

We approach the time when we shall go into a presidential contest. If the Coalition stand till then it will support presidential electors pledged to the Bepublican nominees. It is possible, even probable, that the coalition electoral ticket can be carried through. Nobody will pretend that there is a ghost of a chance for a straightout Republican electoral ticket in Virginia. Republican electoral ticket in the straight of the sake of change. publican electoral ticket in Virginia. Republicans in Virginia have no choice but to join with all who are opposed to Bour bonism or to be overwhelmed as they always have been. Though the Coalition, if it survive long enough, will be brought about a state of affairs more favorable to the Republican party as such. Meanwhile the Readjusters are with us on national questions, and there is no sacrifice of prin-

The Coalition party deserves to live until it shall have accomplished its mission, which is nothing less than the overthrow of Burbonism in Virginia, where Burbonism is found in a rank form.

It is not, however, the debt question which lies at the bottom of the division between parties in Virginia. That question is a mere pretext, as Greenbackisza is elsewhere. The dividing line is drawn on State and National politics, having no relation to the debt question. We know what the State was and what it did under Bourbon rule; we know what it is doing under Liberal rule; we know what it is doing under Liberal rule; we know that the new is infinitely better than the old. This radical change could not have been brought about by the Republican party "single-handed and alone." That party was not strong enough, and it was not growing last enough to hold out hope to the present generation.
